LADY URSULA'S HUSBAND

FLORENCE WARDEN

Ward, Lock & Co., Limited
TORONTO

"Oh, they'll be quite safe. You can trust Tom. He won't lose sight of them for a moment till they're safely locked up in the safe at Winterland."

"For all that, I would not have given them up to him. There are among them family treasures of value, and they have never been out of my own care before."

She rose to her feet, distressed and perplexed. She felt that he had just caused for her, that she had erred in letting things of such value go out of her charge without his permission, and absorbed in distressing thoughts, she turned away, and walked to the other end of the room.

Paul saw in the movement nothing but a recrudescence of the feeling of revulsion against himself which he knew that he merited. He took a step in the direction she had taken, and said gently:

"I don't know what to say to you, I suppose the best thing I can do is to confess that I have already proved myself to be unworthy of your esteem, and that I can make no objection if you prefer to go back to England with your brother."

There was still some sincerity in this, but there was something more. For if she were to agree to go back, she could not, she would not, at any rate, expect to take the jewels with her. Paul stood up as she turned and faced him.

There was upon her beautiful countenance an expression of tenderness which had in it something maternal. There was a smile about her lips as she answered:

"No, you haven't tired me out yet, Paul. And I hope I've not come to the end of your affection for me so soon."

"No, no, of course not. I—"

"I shan't go back unless you send me away. Are you going to do that?"

There was invitation in her voice, in her blue eyes. He advanced towards her, and took her hand, holding it in both his.

"I am going to do nothing but what you wish, now and always," he said. "As for the jewels, well, I suppose I must put up with the loss of them, in token of my remorse."

He was artificial again now. A slight shade of disappointment crossed her face, and she said gently:

"I am going this moment to Tom, to get them back."

"He won't give them up," said Paul firmly.

"Well, we shall see."

The hope of getting his treasures back, slender as it seemed to him, flamed the blaze of Paul's enthusiasm, and he took his wife in his arms. He did not detain her there long, indeed, for he was too anxious for her to start off on her errand. But he continued to express contrition, admiration and gratitude as she put on her hat and fur coat with rapid fingers.

Paul helped her to put the hatpins in; he had a neatness and dexterity of hand which Lady Ursula had often declared to be greater than that of any maid she had ever met with.

Within a very few minutes she was on her way to her brother's hotel, going, on the chance, to the one where the members of her family usually stayed when in Paris.

She was successful in her search, for the first person she saw on reaching the hotel was her brother, with his travelling rug on his arm.

"Tom," cried she with subdued excitement, "Oh, I'm so glad I'm in time!"

He looked at her doubtfully, then his face cleared.

"You're going back to England with me?" he exclaimed eagerly.

"No, no. Take me inside, where we can talk."

He was disturbed, uneasy, unwilling.

even to allow her to talk to him. But she was so serenely imperious, so persuasive in her queenly tenderness, that he had no choice; almost sullenly he led her into the building, and standing with her back to the corner of one of the long, public rooms, deserted at this hour of the day, he said shortly:

"What is it you have come to say?"

"I have come to ask you to give me back the jewels I let you take away."

He nodded.

"I thought so. You have seen Payne?"

"Yes."

Lord Eastling went on with confidence.

"And he was furious, of course, when he heard that I'd got them?"

"He was very angry. I was afraid he would be, you know. He felt, as I thought he would feel, that you and I had taken upon ourselves to do something that we had no right to do."

"I can't agree with you, unless, indeed, his present was no present at all, the jewels were only shown to you, not given at all."

She ignored this unworthy suggestion.

"I've promised to take them back to him."

"Promised. Supposing I won't give them up?"

"Oh, but you will. You must. Whether they are mine, as I understand, or still his, as you assert, they are certainly not yours, you know."

"No. But I look upon myself as the person who is bound to look after you, and that means that I must take care of your property, too."

A flush came into Lady Ursula's cheeks. She understood the innuendo. She could not fail to do so.

"You would be," she said quietly, "if I were not a married woman, Tom, but you can't usurp my husband's place now."

The young man burst out passionately.

"I wish to Heaven there were no thought of it. But, my dear, I know more about him than you do."

For a few seconds she was silent, and then, passing over her calm, beautiful face that shadow of doubt and dismay which Paul's treatment of her, added to her brother's vague accusations, had brought there once before.

But when she spoke she had recovered her confidence, and if there was still some lingering mistrust in her mind, it did not appear in her words or in the expression of her sweet face.

"No, no, Tom, you don't know him as well as I do. You bring a lot of vague accusations against him, but nothing definite. Now, the little I know of him, he has like other people, made a deep study of his character—in definite, and satisfactory. If he has done wrong things, and I suppose he has, like other people, there is no one more ready to acknowledge it."

Lord Eastling waved aside this simple exposition of her faith in her husband.

"Well, I can't argue with you, I never do. But I am determined to do what I can for you, whether you like it or not."

Very well, Tom. Be as benevolent as you please. But give me back my jewels, my jewels."

He shook his head. By the way in which his hands tightened on the bag, which she had perceived to be under the rug, she knew that the jewels were inside it. She laid her hands gently on his.

"You must give them up. Think of it. You can have no claim on them if both my husband and I refuse to let you keep them."

"Yes, I have. Don't pretend that Payne supposes I'm going to make away with the things. I swear I'm only going to lock them up in the strong room."

But she doubted.

"I can't think," she said shrewdly, "that you would be so persistent in this if you had no other reason for wanting them."

Lord Eastling looked disconcerted.

"Why, what do you think I want to do with them?" he asked hastily.

She looked him full in the eyes.

"Tell me," she said, "truly and frankly what your reason is."

His eyes shifted uneasily. There was a silence.

"Come, you can trust me," urged Lady Ursula.

He looked up defiantly.

"It just opens up the whole subject, you know. But if you will have it, here goes." He assumed a judicial air.

"I want to show these things to somebody, who will be able to tell me—whether they were honestly come by."

Suspicious as she was, Lady Ursula experienced a great shock on hearing these words. For a moment she faltered, seemed to shrink. Then, recovering, she grew angry.

"Don't you think," she said sharply, "that you are more likely to be running the risk of having them stolen from you by somebody who has been clever enough to install this poison into your mind, with the very object of getting possession of the jewels?"

"No, I don't. It's a man I know well who wants to see the things."

"I can't allow them to be taken away for such a purpose."

"You must allow it. I won't give them back to you."

How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, don't think glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opton tablets. Dissolve one Bon-Opton tablet in a glass of water, and use the solution. It will soothe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results. In time, you will find that you have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, more eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye diseases. Repeat your prescription with the use of this prescription. Get this prescription filled at once. It will strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses might never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of needless eyeglasses. Only like crutches and every hour you must be careful to use them. Increasing weakness condition, so hard to see, can be cured. Your eyes get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic, eye through the prescription here given. The Valman Drug Co. of Toronto, will fill the above prescription by mail, if your druggist cannot.

A prominent City Physician to whom the above article was submitted, writes as follows: "The ingredients are well known to me. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the best eye preparations I ever used. Keep on hand for regular use in almost every family."

"Children," said the Sunday School superintendent, "this picture illustrates today's lesson: Lot was warned to take his wife and daughters and flee out of Sodom. Here are Lot and his daughters, with his wife just behind him; and there Sodom in the background. Now, has any girl got a question before we take up the study of the lesson? Well, Susie?"

"ANURIC!"

THE NEWEST
DISCOVERY IN CHEMISTRY

This is a recent discovery of Doctor Pierce, who is head of the Infirmary and Hospital at Buffalo, N. Y. Experiments at Doctor Pierce's Hospital for several years proved that the urine of a patient with anuria—that is, a patient who cannot urinate—can be compared to it. For those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation—as backache, uric acid, and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, it is simply a question of time before the acid. The best of results are always obtained in cases of acute rheumatism in the joints, in gravel and gout, and in many cases of uric acid, which so frequently and persistently accompany the disease rapidly disappear.

Go to your nearest drug store and simply ask for 50-cent package of "Anuric," manufactured by Dr. Pierce, or send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce for a large trial package. If you suspect a kidney or bladder trouble send him a sample of your water and describe symptoms. Doctor Pierce's chemist will examine it, then Dr. Pierce will report to you, without fee or charge.

NOTE:—French scientists affirm that "Anuric" is thirty-seven times more active than lithium in eliminating uric acid, and is a harmless but reliable chemical compound that may be safely given to children, but should be used only by grown-ups who actually wish to restore their kidneys to perfect health, by conscientiously using one box—or more in extreme cases—as "Anuric" (thanks to Doctor Pierce's achievement) is by far the most perfect kidney and bladder corrector obtainable.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the original Little Liver Pills. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.

A Chinaman was brought before a magistrate in Salt Lake City and received a fine for a slight misdemeanor. The judge could not make him understand.

"Look here, man," he said, disgustedly, "you pay one dollar or go to jail. You get to pay five dollars fine."

"You're lying, yeller," the Chinaman said. "It's only one dollar."—New Thought.

Barricades on Wheels in War

Reversion to Shields and Armor in Modern Warfare

The present war has upset so many generally accepted principles as to what has hitherto been considered modern warfare that the reversion to shields and armor does not come as a surprise. In their early stages of the war, there was a preference for small shields, because of their portability, protection of the individual soldier in the trenches, economy and adaptability, to the requirements of the sapper, and the barbed wire destroyer.

The Russian has a predilection for the shield, and during the battles that determined the fate of Poland they had to be mounted on wheels. But experience has proved that this shield is of little value when shell fire has found its target.

When, after a storm of high explosives, the enemy resorted to infantry attack, the Russians were compelled in many instances to abandon positions held by shield-protected troops, with the result that many of these revived methods of defence fell into the hands of the enemy.

An authority on the subject makes this observation: "We may draw the conclusion that individual steel shields can be used to good advantage, but larger shields, because of their bulk, are not a success. Protection against light arms and artillery fire during an attack in the open remains a matter of conjecture, with each man taking advantage of such cover as he can find."

So that there is still much left to the individual initiative of the soldier.

As long ago as in the wars of the Greeks, shields or shelters of metal were employed in offensive operations, and were only abandoned when gunpowder gave us cannons and other artillery.

The Kaiser and Our Empire

The Kaiser set out to destroy the empire, but in the end he will only have rebuilt it on a deeper and a surer foundation—his foundation with liberty still as the keystone. In a century, perhaps in half a century, we here at home shall have shrunk by comparison to a relatively minor element of the confederation. The very centre of the English race may have shifted from us, must eventually be shifted from us. But, if we are equal to our heritage, one glory will never pass from these islands—the glory of founding the greatest confederation of free peoples this earth has ever seen.—London Daily News.

Germany will be fooled.

Paris, May 27.—"Let the German Chancellor pursue his game the Temps says to-day. 'The Allies fully understand his manoeuvre. They oppose by an unshakable determination expressed not only by the chief officers of the entente allies governments, but upon the battlefields and in the war factories. Germany will not get by ruse that peace which she is unable to get by force.'

Advance on Petrograd.

London, May 27.—The naval correspondent of the Times asserts that the next great German offensive probably will be begun in northern Russia, taking the form of a combined land and sea attack from the Gulf of Riga, and across the Dvina, heralding an endeavor to advance toward Petrograd.

In concert with this campaign some observers anticipate a simultaneous blow at the British front in France and Flanders. And here also, it is believed an effort may be made by sea as well as by land.

Terrific smash of Bulgars near

Rome, May 26.—Italians join Allies at Salonika, planning drive on Germans and Bulgarians. A terrific smash within a few weeks aimed at eliminating the Turks and Bulgars from the war will be the Allies first great stroke for peace.

This is the report in general circulation here to-day. Heavy allied attacks from Salonika and in Mesopotamia will be followed by a tremendous offensive against the Austro-Germans in an attempt to win the war before winter.

British, Serbian and Italian forces are reported concentrated at Salonika awaiting to strike against the Bulgars in Southern Serbia. This is the first report that Italian troops are at Salonika.

Meanwhile the Russians are pressing on towards Bagdad, rolling back the Turks.

German Mutiny.

New York, May 27.—A news agency despatch from London quotes a Geneva despatch to the Daily Express as follows: "The Vienna correspondent of the Geneva Tribune says a serious mutiny occurred recently among the German troops at Kobylin, Prussia, (province of Posen) and that several officers were shot by the soldiers. Hussars of the Fourth Division headed the mutineers. Lack of food and bad treatment was the cause of the mutiny.

President Wilson in his latest speech says that the United States has no concern with the causes or objects of the war.

We agree with him in his statement. The United States are not troubling themselves about these small matters, but they worry themselves when they think of losing any of the profits which they are making out of the war.

Notice the difference in the tone of his notes from the U. S. to Germany over the submarine question and to Great Britain and France over the detention of mail matter. The notes to Germany are polite; but those to Great Britain and France are brusque.

It is not hard to see through. The United States know that Germany if written to in the same manner as Great Britain and France, would go to war; but she knows that there is no chance of Great Britain and France making war.

Spreading Good News Broadcast

WANTS EVERYBODY TO KNOW DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HIM

Louis Champagne, After a Long Period of Sickness and Weakness, Says He Found New Health in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Millarand, Ont.—(Special)—Strong and hearty again after a long period of weakness and ill-health, Louis Champagne, a well known resident of this place, is spreading broadcast the good news that he found new health and strength in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For a long time," Mr. Champagne states in an interview, "I suffered from kidney disease and backache. My appetite was uncertain, and I got up in the morning with a bitter taste in my mouth. There were flashes of light before my eyes, and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. My limbs were heavy and I was always tired."

"Then I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to be able to say that two boxes made me well. I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills to all those who suffer from feebleness or bad kidneys."

If you have the symptoms mentioned by Mr. Champagne you may be sure your kidneys need attention. Neglected kidneys are the cause of more than half the ills mankind is heir to. The way to treat sick or weak kidneys is to use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Pills of Attestation Value

—Parsmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of careful study of the properties of certain roots and herbs, and the action of such as sedatives and laxatives on the digestive apparatus. The success the compounds have met with attests the value of their work. These pills have been recognized for many years as the best cleansers of the system that can be got. Their excellence was recognized from the first and they grow more popular daily.

We recently heard a remark by an old Kentucky farmer which seems worth entering for the ungrammatical sentence prize. To a visitor he observed: "Them three Miss Perkins is three of as pretty a gal as ever I see."

Aching Back Gets Relief Quick!

One Rub With "Nerviline" Cures

Every Bit of Stiffness and Soreness Goes When "Nerviline" is Used

Pain in back or side is awful hard to reach. Deep in the tissue is a congested or strained muscle. It is a long way for a liniment to go. Liniments you have used have not reached it, and the pain bothers you, whether moving or lying down.

What a pity you haven't tried Nerviline! Penetrating, you ask? Yes, and powerful, too. Nerviline strikes in far deeper than any application you have ever used. You might pay a dollar, ten dollars, a hundred, for that matter, but you could not equal Nerviline, either in strength, quickness of action, or permanency of relief.

If you think this too much to say for Nerviline, try it, and be convinced.

If you receive from Nerviline even a little less relief from pain than this advertisement induces you to expect, you can get your money back.

The only pain remedy in the world sold under a guarantee is Nerviline—surely it is safe to try it.

Nerviline is sold by druggists everywhere, 25 cents or 50 cents a bottle, or direct from The Cattarigone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Husband (explaining income tax)—You see, my dear, if our income is over a stated amount we have to pay the government.

OVERSTRAINED NERVES

"This typewriting gets on my nerves."

"Now I'm well and enjoy my work."

Neurasthenia or Exhaustion of the Nervous System.

It is quite possible for the nervous system to be considerably exhausted before you realize the seriousness of your condition. You do not feel up to the mark, are easily tired out, worry over little things, and get cross and irritable, but do not consider yourself sick.

For this reason we shall give an outline of the symptoms so that you may be warned in time and use preventive treatment at a time when it will do the most good.

1. General discomfort—excitement and depression alternating.
2. Headache and sometimes dizziness, and deafness.
3. Disturbed, restless, unrefreshing sleep, interrupted by dreams.
4. Weakness of memory, particularly of recent events.
5. Blurring sight, noises and ringing in the ears.
6. Disturbance of sensibility or feeling, as in hands, or, with women, in the breasts.
7. Coldness of parts of body or flushing and sweats.
8. Lack of tone, easily fatigued, dyspepsia.
9. Fear to be alone, or in a crowd, fear of things falling, fear of travelling, etc.

These symptoms indicate that the nerves are being starved for lack of rich, red blood. Certain elements are lacking which can best be supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This cure is easily available and awaits alone your action in applying it. There is no question of the merits of this food cure. Enquiry among your friends will prove to you that many thousands of women, and men, too, are being restored to health and vigor by use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations disappoint.

GLASS OF WATER

Upset Her

People who don't know about food should never be allowed to feed persons with weak stomachs.

Sometime ago a young woman had an attack of scarlet fever, and when convalescing was permitted to eat anything she wanted. Indiscriminate feeding soon put her back in bed with severe stomach and kidney trouble.

"There I stayed," she says, "three months, with my stomach in such condition that I could take only a few spoonfuls of milk or beef juice at a time. Finally Grape-Nuts was brought to my attention and I asked my doctor if I might eat it. He said 'yes' and I commenced at once.

"The food did me good from the start and I was soon out of bed and recovered from the stomach trouble. I have gained ten pounds and am able to do all household duties, some days sitting down only long enough to eat my meals. I can eat anything that one ought to eat, but I still continue to eat Grape-Nuts at breakfast and supper and like it after every day.

"Considering that I could stand only a short time, and that a glass of water seemed 'so heavy,' I am fully satisfied that Grape-Nuts has been everything to me and that my return to health is due to it.

"I have told several friends having nervous or stomach trouble what Grape-Nuts did for me and in every case they speak highly of the food."

"There's a Reason." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

Money in Flax On New Breaking

Prepares the Soil for Wheat and Provides Found Crop

J. H. Grisdale, B. Agr. Director Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, says:

"For the new settler or the man with new breaking done before May 25 or 26, flax offers an opportunity for money making this year on this land such as is not possible with any other crop. Breaking about three inches deep, so as to fill all openings or space between the furrows, and to conserve any available moisture, as well as make a solid seed bed, will be such a preparation as gives a fair chance of a fair crop of flax, if good seed is carefully sown before the first of June. Sow seed at the rate of 30 to 40b per acre.

"Where wheat seeding has progressed rather slowly it will often be advisable to sow the first few acres intended for wheat to flax instead. The cash returns from the two crops are likely to be practically equal this year."

"The flax crop will rot the sod on new breaking, and leave the soil in at least as good condition for wheat as if it had been summerfallowed. Besides, it will provide a substantial revenue, for flaxseed has averaged around $2 a bushel for several months past."

Nervous Dyspepsia

The Modern Scourge and How to Meet it.

The speed at which we live, the hustle now so necessary for success have unfortunately a very adverse effect on the nervous and digestive systems of Canadians. The baneful results, increased lately to an alarming degree, often lay the seeds of more deadly trouble, but it will be satisfactory to learn of the ever-increasing popularity in the Dominion, of the Great British Remedy, Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

An Effort to Find Ideal Food

Feeds Rats to Find What He Should Eat

More than 1,000 rats are being used in the agricultural chemistry department of the University of Wisconsin in an effort on the part of Professor E. V. McCollum to discover the ideal food that will make people live the most efficient lives and grow at the best practical rate.

Although the experiments are being made upon rats, the results are known to be the same as if they were made upon human beings. Professor McCollum has already been at work for seven years on this problem.

He has early discovered the perfect food, but is still in search of the chemical parts of the two unknown compounds that will make up the ideal food for which he is searching.

NEW STRENGTH IN THE SPRING

Nature Needs Aid in Making New Health-Giving Blood

In the spring the system needs a tonic. To be healthy you must have new blood, just as the trees must have new sap to renew their vitality. Nature demands it, and without this new blood you will feel weak and languid. You may have twinges of rheumatism or the sharp stabbing pains of neuralgia. Often there are disgusting pimples or eruptions on the skin. In other cases there is merely a feeling of tiredness and a variable appetite. Any of these are signs that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has lessened your vitality.

What you need in spring is a tonic medicine to put you right, and in all the world of medicine there is no tonic can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills actually make new rich, red blood—your greatest need in spring. This new blood drives out the seeds of disease and makes easily tired men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. Eugene Cadarette, Amherstburg, Ont., says: "I suffered for a long time from dizziness, pain in the back and sick headache, and nothing took me any good until I began Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These cured me after taking six boxes and now feel better than ever I did in my life. I had fallen off in weight to 82 pounds, and after taking the Pills I had increased to 100 pounds."

The Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

If Germany had a greater navy than Britain, it would not be in favor of the freedom of the seas.

If the Allies win the war they will remember their own sacrifices, their own valor and their own losses.

They will have no admiration and less gratitude for the unchivalrous assistance from Washington.

If the Germans lose, they will charge their defeat to the last hair that broke the back of their offense. They will cherish against the U.S. a lasting enmity. If they should win, they will count the States among their enemies, the one and only one who can pay for part of their losses. Uncle Sam looks to be the loser no matter which way it goes.

Woodrow Wilson seems to be developing a streak of real pugnacity as the Presidential campaign approaches. His latest saying is that "it is sometimes necessary to knock a man down to make him respect you."

Contrast that with the sentiment of a year ago about being "too proud to fight."

In Canada the question came up as to whether the railways are carrying the people, or the people are carrying the railways.

She was a young and pretty girl of a sporting turn of mind. Somehow she heard that a certain horse was to win a certain race, and desiring to indulge in a little speculation, she went to a "bookie" and put a dollar on for a win, asking how much she would get if it came off.

"If it starts at 20 to 1 you get back $21" said the bookie: "if at 10 to 1, $11 back, if at 5 to 1 you will get $6 back. "I see" said the young girl, "and if it starts at one o'clock how much do I get then?"

Mrs. J. Allen returned home Monday evening after spending a few days in Calgary.

The Monitor Band had their initial practice on Monday night with a very good attendance. Owing to the absence of the instructor, there wasn't very much accomplished. The boys are confident that with a little practice they will be able to perform creditably. They very considerably selected a building on the outside of the town, so that the only sufferers were the mice in the building.

We were told confidentially by one of the boys that he had discovered a new vermin exterminator; he claims that with three doses of the foregoing he can kill, or at least make dippy all the mice in the place, but he doesn't want it generally known as it will spoil the sale of his Kill-em-quick besides causing too great a demand for the band's services, so don't mention it, please.

A REALLY GOOD FENCE
gives a man more satisfaction and comfort than anything else of equal value around the place.

Especially appreciated when one is going away for the day—one likes to feel that the fence is hog-tight and horse-high.

Whatever kind of fencing you may be thinking of getting for your place, for whatever purpose you want it, you will find our store ready to serve you.

We have a full range of sizes—for everything from chickens to horses.

Let us figure up your requirements—and we will take care to see that you get plenty of staples, too.

Shot Shells—REMINGTON-UMC, the make with the Red Ball Mark on every box. You know these famous shells—the "Arrow" and "Nitro Club" (Smokeless) and "New Club" (black powder). Every sportsman knows them—many use nothing else. We make it a point to keep them on hand all the time.
